what happens to the dying in the final days and weeks of their lives what emotions come to the surface and what do they want to talk about attilio stajano a volunteer worker at the palliative care ward of a brussels hospital presents a series of deeply moving personal encounters with seriously ill patients the dying he discovers have much to teach the living whilst their stories are all different they share one thing in common in the end when all is said and done only love remains how should we respond to the challenge of death as a society and as individuals we can choose to be patient and sensitive giving dignity to those reaching the end of their lives even when those lives appear to have no further value the period leading to death can be full of profound experiences telling us much about the meaning of life and the abiding nature of love if we see the terminally ill as an inconvenience however we forego the possibility of finding unexpected resources in ourselves a tenderness a touch a readiness to assist that we did not know we were capable of underlying this book is the momentous and very current debate over euthanasia in a comprehensive appendix the author reports on the provision of palliative care services and the laws governing euthanasia in european and english speaking countries around the world and the implications these have for the way we value and care for the dying i've imagined this in my head so many times i've always thought about what i would say what i would do and how it would all turn out to be and every time i would remove some detail she's a flight attendant young bright and living her dream he's a heartbroken singer on his way to becoming big she's an ardent fan of his he can't imagine why and yet seems to find comfort in her words it's the first time they are together and in their hearts both are wishing hoping and praying that the night would never end that the time they are spending together lasts and lasts in the world of love there is always someone perfectly right for you lennon and mccartney painting with sound explores the work of two of the most influential composers of the twentieth century five decades after the breakup of the beatles the music of john lennon and paul mccartney continues to fascinate and inspire evidence suggests that their uniquely eclectic approach can be traced back to the liverpool college of art following on that idea this book explores the creative dialogue between john lennon and paul mccartney both with the beatles and on their own that grew out of that early influence the book is presented in three sections i stretching the canvas considers the liverpool college of art as the backdrop for john and paul's early collaborations with painter and musician stuart sutcliffe this is followed by discussions of select works created by the beatles between 1962-69 ii extending the space focuses on the long distance creative dialogue between lennon and mccartney as demonstrated in their respective solo recordings of the 1970s iii new colours considers the final works of the lennon and mccartney creative dialogue as well as various mccartney solo projects released in the years that followed lennon's death in 1980 here the focus is on paul s development as a painter its effect on his creativity and his subsequent efforts to establish the liverpool institute for performing arts as a world class arts conservatory there is a quiet crisis and we each know it when we get there we ve tried to keep busy working shopping being socially active getting high or focusing on anything else so we wouldn t have to face the terrifying feelings and thoughts that come when we slow down for a moment the crisis comes when we ve done everything we can to feel safe and happy and we still feel sad alone and empty as we lie in bed exhausted each night the question we each have to answer is who do you think you are because we ve mistaken our identity as being only human we ve accepted limits that do not allow for the realization of our highest potential up until now we ve been missing incredible opportunities to live prosperous loving joy filled lives an emergency department crisis counselor demonstrates that we are powerful sacred human beings with the ability to focus our thoughts and feelings in ways that will absolutely transform our lives with awareness and practice we can become our sacred selves for those who are hungry for change it s time to joyfully move to the other side of the crisis
